SUPERVISOR COMMENTS

Today was our squads Monday, and it was rather busy. Officers were kept occupied for a majority of the day and dealt with not only calls for service, but also in-service firearms training. Officers investigated a restraining order violation early in the day. A son was restrained from his mother's residence, however he decided to start yelling at the home while in their front yard. When officers arrived, he tried to hide from officers but was located and arrested. Later on, officers were flagged down by loss prevention agents with a local retail store. Two subjects were arrested and cited for shoplifting.
